

Merger Of Boroughs May Save $17,500 Annually

Economy League Aims Study Results

ANNUAL savings totaling an estimated $17,500 would result if tax-supported municipal functions of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg were merged.

Such was contained in a summary presented at the Stroudsburg Rotary Club meeting yesterday by Herman Otto, supervisor of county branch operations for the Pennsylvania Economy League's central division.

A study regarding potentials of consolidating the two boroughs was made recently by the league at the direction of the Rotary Club.

Of a fact-finding nature, the study concerned the basic factors of governmental structure and services, Otto explained. Therefore, it was limited to a review of the existing structure of government in each borough, services currently rendered by each borough and the basic means of financing these services, and finally an estimation of the probable results in terms of service and cost should the boroughs merge.

The report emphasizes that water and sewer systems operate utilities and are self-supporting (not financed from tax funds). Therefore, Otto said, they can be considered separate from consolidation of the boroughs.

In the absence of municipal merger, he added, the services can be merged with water, sewer with sewer or in total if deemed appropriate.

Otto also touched on the effect consolidation would have on school districts. Both local districts, he said, are fourth class and the matter of any change in school district boundaries would have to go to the State Council of Education for a decision.

Therefore, the league recommends a separate survey be conducted before any attempt is made to change the boundaries. Each school district is a separate unit of government, Otto explained, so it would not necessarily be affected by a merger of municipal governments.

Otto broke down the estimated savings of $17,500 in municipal operations as follows: general government, $3,000; police protection, $6,500; fire protection, $3,000; street department, $5,000.

The survey, he said, did not foresee any savings in such services as refuse collection and disposal, health and sanitation, recreation and some miscellaneous categories.

General government costs approximately $14,500 in East Stroudsburg and $19,000 in Stroudsburg or a total of $33,500, based on 1956 figures.

Consolidation would result in one borough rather than two and similarly for the offices of treasurer, solicitor, auditors. It is presumed that the new council would approximate one-half the size of the existing two councils.

Police protection in 1956 cost about $37,000 in Stroudsburg and about $36,000 in East Stroudsburg for a total operating expenditure of $73,000.

A combination of the two forces with a total of 14 rather than 16 full-time personnel should be able to provide as adequate and protective protection as is currently provided, the survey showed.

A major advantage of a consolidation force would be centralized control in the event of an emergency and a sufficient size force to allow desk coverage at police headquarters on a 24-hour basis.

Establishment of a single police communications system should be a substantial improvement, said the report. Elimination of some duplication of equipment might be expected.

SEVEN CENTS

FIREMAN OF THE YEAR—Man who received first Daily Record trophy as outstanding volunteer fireman is Richard MacDonald, Marshalls Creek. Daily Record Presents Trophy To Top Fireman

THE DAILY Record—showing the gratitude of all Monroe County residents for expert fire protection provided by local volunteers—last night presented its first "Volunteer Fireman of the Year" trophy.

In a ceremony conducted at a regular meeting of the Monroe County Firemen's Association, Horace G. Heller, Record general manager, presented the inscribed trophy to Richard MacDonald.

MacDonald, a tireless member of the Marshalls Creek Volunteer Co., was chosen by an impartial panel of three judges last week as the man best exemplifying the skilled and dedicated service of local firefighters.

His name was placed in nomination by his company. In the competition for top honors he was in contest with nominees from all other county companies.

Judges in the contest were from both rural and urban areas in Northeastern Pennsylvania. Their selection was based upon the written summaries of firemen's activities within the county.

In presenting the trophy Heller paid tribute to all firemen working in fire companies on the local level. He praised area firefighting as among the finest in the state and, because it is conducted entirely on a non-paying and voluntary basis, among the best in the nation.

He noted that firemen, in their wholehearted and selfless dedication to duty save local communities countless thousands of dollars each year in property value alone. Added to this, he said, is the enormous psychological value of knowing that our homes are protected and that this area's top-flight fire companies are always on call.

Nomination certificates were presented to the runner-up, Leroy Kaiser of Delaware Water Gap and to the nominees from all other companies.

In addition to Kaiser, certificates went to Millard "Skip" Phillips, Phoenix Co., Stroudsburg; Charles Knecht, Coolbaugh; Robert Brong, West End; Robert Lesoine, East Stroudsburg; Harold Treible, Shawnee; Gerald Hanna, Tobyhanna Township; Philip Angle, Bushkill; William Raish, Pocono Township; Wesley Christman, Kunkletown; William Krummell, Barrett; Jacob Rustine, Jackson Township and David Bisbing, Mount Pocono.

James Anthony, Delaware Water Gap fire chief and chairman of the nominating committee, presented the certificates.

Primary aim of The Daily Record award is to call public attention to the splendid job being done by volunteer firemen. It will be an annual award and is designed to dramatize the indispensable role played by fire companies in the community.

Speakers representing the Firemen's Assn. and individual companies, in turn, thanked Heller for his cooperation and the newspaper for its sponsorship of the competition.

The association selected a committee to plan for the second annual fire school to be held for all Monroe County companies.

Harvey Burris, president of the association, announced that the committee will meet on Wednesday, Oct. 30, at the Stroudsburg firehouse to make initial school plans. Burris has requested that the chief of each company in the county be on hand for the business session.

Burris also revealed that the next meeting of the association will be held at the Jackson Township firehouse on Dec. 12.

Queen Wins Reception In Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Great Britain's Queen Elizabeth won a warm welcome from Washington today, and responded with every evidence that she was thoroughly enjoying herself.

Only once was her gaiety subdued—she became gravely solemn during a tribute in Arlington National Cemetery to the war dead.

Otherwise, from the time she alighted with her handsome Prince Philip at National Airport until the minutely scheduled day was over, the keynote was festivity.

Parade

There was the parade from the airport to the White House, in which she was cheered all along the way.

There was a reception given in her and the prince's honor by the Washington news corps.

President Eisenhower, smiling, met her at the aircraft's door. A 21-gun salute echoed and the strains of "God Save the Queen" and "The Star-Spangled Banner" were played in the full-scale military welcome.

Elizabeth, her husband, and Eisenhower then moved in triumphant procession from the airport to the White House. Hundreds of thousands cheered, clapped and waved British Union Jacks as the three rode by in Eisenhower's bubbletop limousine.

The weather, as if taking part also in the event, fitted itself to Elizabeth's schedule.

Threatening rain held up during her hour-long procession. Then, later, it fell in a dreary drizzle from leaden skies when she and Philip went to Arlington National Cemetery.

There, an unsmiling Elizabeth laid identical laurel wreaths, festooned with red and white carnations, at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and at the Canadian Cross.

Her handsome husband, in the Fleet uniform, but Elizabeth wore the same bright blue dress and topcoat in which she had arrived.

Muffled drum rolls and "Taps" sounded at the impressive ceremonies. The dreary weather lent an added note of pathos to the bugler's call of lament for the war dead.

Wreath

Philip helped her lay that wreath and the one at the Canadian monument near by. This was erected by the government of Canada to honor American citizens who died in World War I while serving in the Canadian army.

The royal couple stopped also at an equestrian statue of Field Marshal Sir John Dill, who was Britain's senior representative on the Allied High Command during World War II. He died in the United States in 1944 and was buried at Arlington by special congressional dispensation.

The Queen seemed warm as she arrived at the airport, perhaps because she already had put in four days of almost constant activity in Canada and Williamsburg.

However, she was smiling broadly.

Davies Halts Suit Against U. S. Troops

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 17 (AP)—Little seeking to stop United States troops from enforcing integration at Central High School was thrown out today by U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies.

The Fargo, N.D., judge's action brought a rebuke from Gov. Orval Faubus who last month called Davies "prejudiced and biased" in the integration dispute.

The attorney who filed the suit in U.S. District Court released a blistering condemnation of the action and said the judge's "impachment" should "be the first order of business of the next Congress."

Faubus said the judge's action in dismissing the suit was "in keeping with his—Davies'—former methods, but is more far-reaching than anything he has done in the past."

Wife Acquitted

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—A Wyoming County jury of 10 men and two women today acquitted 34-year-old Norma Meeker after the presiding judge said that the fatal shooting of her husband last Aug. 28 was "not murder at all."

Nobody Knows Hospital, Post Office Fail To Identify Mystery Figure

CHARLES Schwartzgood, Sr., remained a mystery last night despite intensive efforts by The Daily Record and other papers to verify his existence in this area.

Swartzgood, according to Clifford Spickler of Langhorne, operated a tool and die plant in East Stroudsburg in 1955.

Spickler was told last week that he is to receive a half-million dollar bequest because he twice saved Swartzgood's life. So far, he has received no official or personal confirmation of the bequest.

But to get back to Swartzgood, He allegedly was hospitalized in Newton, N. J., after a heart attack during the 1955 flood. The record: the hospital never heard of him.

Swartzgood's tool and die plant, according to Spickler, was located in a suburb of East Stroudsburg. It was a small operation and Swartzgood paid all his bills by cash, Spickler says.

The record: Stewart Marsh, assistant East Stroudsburg postmaster, says he does not recall the name and, although no official check has been made, he has talked to several longtime mail carriers who also do not recall the name.

Two more persons died Thursday in the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton area bringing to nine the number of deaths from respiratory illnesses in that part of the state this month. None of the cases has been positively diagnosed as influenza, Asian strain or otherwise.

Two persons died in the Towanda area Thursday night. In each instance the attending physician diagnosed the illness as Asian influenza.

Eugene Middaugh, 22, of Endicott, N. Y., was taken ill while working on a farm near Leraysville in Bradford County and removed to Ideal Hospital across the state line in Edinboro, where he died shortly after admission. Dr. Henry Brown of Leraysville said the youth was an Asian flu victim.

Harry Vosburg, 56, of Laceyville, died Thursday evening in Tyler Memorial Hospital, Meadville. His physician, Dr. Charles Kraft, said he had diagnosed the case as influenza, Asian strain.

More schools closed as absenteeism mounted. Additional college and high school football games were cancelled.

Cases in Philadelphia swept past 100,000, as the City Health Department reported 15,000 more stricken.

Flu Claims 18 Lives In Pennsylvania

By The Associated Press

ASIAN flu and milder flu-type respiratory illnesses affected thousands more Pennsylvania Thursday—with indications the epidemic might be nearing its peak.

In all at least 18 Pennsylvanians reportedly have died as a result of Asian flu or flu-like illness. The death of Joseph C. Pelt, 7, second grade pupil at St. Bartholomew School at Pittsburgh, was identified today as caused by an inflammation of the brain. It had been believed earlier, his death resulted from flu.

Sara Louise Mullen, 14, died in Clearfield Hospital Thursday. The child had been taken ill with a virus infection last week. An autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death.

Permission Expected In Short Time

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—The 82-nation General Assembly and its Steering Committee tonight called meetings for tomorrow to arrange debate on Syria's demand for an inquiry in the Middle East crisis.

The immediate issue is Syrian-Turkish tensions.

The 17-member Steering Committee, composed of the president, vice presidents and departmental committee chairman of the Assembly, is expected to give quick approval to having an Assembly debate. It meets at 2 p.m. EST.

The 82-nation Assembly meets immediately afterward to ratify the Steering Committee decision and set the time for beginning debate.

The United States, Britain and other Western nations have said they welcomed the inquiry. The United States has already begun urgent consultations with others in an effort to spotlight the role of the Soviet Union behind Syria.

Assembly

To set the stage the Assembly must ratify whatever action its Steering Committee takes. In view of both East-West and Arab-Asian support of the Syrian demand, there was no doubt that the debate on the inquiry would be authorized in some form by the entire Assembly.

There were indications that extraordinary sessions may be held in the weekend if the debate gets into full swing.

Syria claimed to be in danger of imminent attack from Turkey. The Soviet Union supported Syria and accused the United States of plotting aggression.

Syria placed its army on the alert today and armed some civilian groups but decided at a Cabinet meeting in Damascus that general mobilization is unnecessary.

Dispatches from Damascus reported high Syrian officials are saying privately they do not think Turkey will attack. But some are accusing the Turks of unwarranted interference in Syria's internal affairs.

Note

A Turkish note delivered in Damascus denied any Turkish intent to attack Syria.

Seyfullah Esin, Turkish ambassador in the U.N. delegation, said here the charges are fantastic. He said the Soviet-Syrian action is part of a Kremlin campaign to put blame for the tense Middle East situation on the shoulders of Turkey and the United States.

Britain announced that Prime Minister Macmillan will fly to Washington on Tuesday to confer with President Eisenhower on world problems, including the Middle East. Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and U.S. Secretary of State Dulles will also attend the talks. Lloyd is now in Washington, and has met there with Dulles.

Britain took the view that the Soviet charges against Turkey and the United States constituted propaganda aimed at extending the Kremlin's influence in the Middle East. A Foreign Office spokesman said Britain does not believe there is any danger of a Turkish aggression against Syria.

U.S. sources at the United Nations expressed a similar attitude, saying they saw little danger of war at this stage unless some hot-head accidentally touches off a conflagration.

But these sources made clear the United States is anxious for a Middle East debate in order to show "who is really responsible for tension in that area."

Stroudsburg Parking Authority Approves 'Off Street' Plan

Report Made By Firm Of Engineers

THE STROUDSBURG Parking Authority yesterday approved an engineer's report for an "offstreet" parking lot in the downtown business district. It will be submitted to Borough Council for further action.

The approval was given during a luncheon meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel which was also attended by representatives of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn.

The report was prepared by Gannett, Fleming Corbly and Carpenter, Inc., Harrisburg engineering firm.

As amended on Oct. 8 of this year, the report calls for acquiring property currently occupied by Acme Stores and Cyphers Coal Yard adjacent to Sixth and Main Sts.

The original report also included the site of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. parking lot. The Sixth and Main intersection was described by the engineers as "the center of parking demand."

Report

The report also calls for increasing the present 86 stalls to 202 and points out that the lot can eventually be extended to the south side of Ann St. as the demand increases.

The engineering firm also wrote:

"We recommend that the borough council enter into a lease back agreement with the parking authority as a practical means of insuring the sale of revenue bonds for a parking project."

The report will be brought before Council at its November meeting, a spokesman for the authority said.

The authority also recommended installation of eight-hour parking meters on Sarah St., replacing the four-hour meters now installed there, and removal of meters from the east side of Sixth St. from Main St. to Hood Alley.

Both recommendations will also be submitted to Council for action.

Missiles Program Cut Back

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Air Force's Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles—ICBM—procurement program has been cut back three times this year.

They said the last cut, ordered in August, resulted in the layoff of some workers by the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., at San Diego.

This report from within the industry was supplied a week after President Eisenhower told his news conference that work on both the ICBM and intermediate range ballistic missiles—IRBM—had been given top priority with the government.

The White House and Air Force both declined comment on the report.

Sources

The aircraft sources, who talked with a reporter on the understanding they would not be identified, said that in addition to the cuts in Atlas missile purchases, Convair was told that funds for over-all operations would be reduced 18 per cent over the next nine months.

They said the decision was left to Convair on whether to cut work further on the missile program or on the production of fighter-interceptors. The Air Force also refused to comment on this report.

The industry sources said Convair elected to proceed with work on the Atlas and apply the fund reductions to aircraft schedules.

Secretary of State Dulles gave one assessment of the administration's attitude toward the missile program today when he told his news conference the United States still has military superiority over the Russians because of its lead in heavy bombers.

Dulles said manned bombers are still the decisive weapons in modern forces, although in five or 10 years missiles may be.

Vacation Bureau Plans 'Ethical Practices' Code

Area Unit Praised In Connecticut

MARSHALLS CREEK — Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau is about to take an important step toward an "ethical practices" code for local resort owners.

J. Horace Strunk, PMVB secretary, said after a meeting of the unit last night at Bill Altier's Inn that a "membership approval committee" had been named.

Strunk said: "We're coming to the stage where we want our members to operate on a pretty ethical basis. We're becoming a little bit fussy, frankly, about ethical operations and the kind of membership we will have in the future."

Committee

The secretary said that the approval committee would be in charge of reviewing the applications of all resorts, inns, hotels or motels in the future. He said it would be for the overall good of the organization and of the industry in this area.

Strunk also announced that Vacation Bureau information booths will be "put on a self-sustaining basis" this coming year. He said the booths will be allowed to support themselves through collection of a 10 percent commission on all reservations made by them.

In last night's meeting at Altier's, the PMVB also heard a report from Strunk on a convention he attended in Connecticut. Strunk said that "resort operators in New England are doing their best to imitate the Poconos in their advertising—they know what we have here and they know they haven't got anything so good."

President Leroy Guccini, newly-elected to the top post, was in charge of the meeting. He appointed several committees and reviewed organization activities during the past season.

Tribute

Strunk said that "most of the meeting was routine business." Not "routine at all," he said, was the tribute paid to the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau by the Connecticut Hotel Assn. in its convention at Canaan's Wake Robin Inn.

Mack A. Chamberlain, chairman of the American Hotel Assn's resort committee cited the PMVB as "one of the finest examples of a privately-organized resort organization in America," the secretary reported. PMVB was invited to attend the Connecticut convention as an honored guest.

Committees (and their chairmen) appointed by Guccini, were the following: Advertising, E. C. Jenkins; booth study, Paul Asure; booth operations, William Altier; membership approval, E. C. Jenkins; convention, Charles Geissinger; hotel show, Harry Ahnert; salary, Leroy Guccini; constitution, Dr. Claude Leister. Dr. Claude Leister, owner of the Pocono Wild Animal Farm, was elected treasurer of the PMVB.

Tips May Be Helpful

Rest Good Weapon To Fight 'Bug'

MONROE COUNTY physicians last night gave these helpful instructions to persons who have had colds or fear they have influenza.

First—it's a good idea to contact your family doctor. Although he may be able to do nothing but check your symptoms and insure that you have nothing more serious than a bad cold, the doctor should know you're sick.

Second—Influenza alone is no more dangerous than a severe head or chest cold. It's the complications that count. Any "cold" can develop into something much more serious unless you take care of yourself.

Third—Remember your best allies in fighting either a cold or flu are still the most simple: Take aspirin and get plenty of sleep and rest.

Although there was less unanimity on the question of Asian flu "shots," some doctors recommend that those who have not come down with colds have themselves immunized with the Asian vaccine.

Meanwhile, the outbreak of respiratory ailments continued to rise in Monroe County yesterday. But there were few, if any, serious cases of illness reported.

Doctors' offices were besieged by a seemingly never-ending stream of patients throughout the day and their telephones seldom stopped ringing at night. One local physician, who had just finished treating his 200th patient yesterday, dropped into a chair, wiped his forehead with a weary hand and confessed to the fact that he'd had only five hours sleep in the past three days.

He sniffed audibly, coughed dryly, then grinned at a departing patient who was blowing his nose.

"Get plenty of sleep," he said.

Yetter In Opposition To Remark Made By Rival Party Spokesman In Campaign

DEMOCRATIC Party Chairman Van D. Yetter last night charged Republicans are deliberately trying to "deceive taxpayers in this judicial district."

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Middle Smithfield Democratic Club at Echo Valley Lodge, Yetter said:

"I had been hopeful that in the present campaign, since the office of Judge for our local courts is to be filled, that the campaign would be carried out on a high plane. I had hoped that it would be devoid of misleading statements and untruthful statements."

"I note by the press that apparently this will not be true and that the Republican campaigners are again making statements that are untrue and false and it is my desire to correct such falsehoods."

"I have reference to a statement made by one of the Republican campaigners to the effect that he would prefer to retain the present judge rather than place on the taxpayers the burden of paying, in effect, for two judges. I am convinced that the man who made that statement knew it was misleading and untrue and that it was done for the sole purpose of deceiving the taxpayers of this judicial district."

"May I assure you that if the present Judge is retired, he will not be on the payroll of the taxpayers. He will be like any other taxpayer. He will be like any taxpayer holder or State employee. In other words, he will go off the payroll at the end of his term and the new judge will go on the payroll."

"The Republican speaker should have said that when the present Judge is retired, he will be eligible for a pension. This is required by a law enacted in 1929 when judges were placed in the same category as any other State employee. Such employees contribute out of their salary to the pension fund and at the time of their retirement, if they are qualified, they will receive a pension."

"This pension fund now amounts to approximately $100,000 and it is from this fund that the pension is paid. In other words, the employees have created the fund and the pension does not cost the taxpayers one cent."

"I might also add that, since this speaker brought up the subject of salary, he should have told his audience that the present judge has occupied public office for many, many years. And during this period of time the taxpayers have paid him over $200,000. It is my feeling that no man should ask for more from the hands of the people than the amount he has already received."

"On the other hand, the Democratic candidate, Russell Mervino, has never been on the public payroll. He has never taken an active part in politics, owes no political debts and, since he is asking for only one term, will be free to administer justice on a non-partisan basis."

Brownies Cause Of Excitement

NEWFOUNDLAND — Things really hum in the Greene-Dreher-Sterling School cafeteria on Monday afternoons after school is over for the day.

A very busy group of seven to nine-year-olds, newly organized into a Brownie Troop sponsored by the Greene-Dreher Women's Club, is meeting each week to learn about the ways of scouting.

Ethel Wohlfart, assisted by Betty Robacker and Lucille Ketz, leads the active group which has begun to make scout equipment such as sewing cases and first aid kits. Also working with the new troop are Senior Scouts Nancy Marsch and Peggy Wohlfart.

Pamela Eggert, of Angels, was elected president of the Brownies. Vice president is Bliss Arneberg; scribe, Elaine Hinton; and treasurer Connie Keiter.

Patrols

Four "work units" similar to patrol in the Intermediate and Senior Troops, have been formed with a leader and an assistant in each unit. They are: Blue Jays, Loretta Hamlin, leader; Ellen Cramer, assistant; Inger Madson, Connie Keiter, Joyce McLain and Nancy Krieger; Hummingbirds, Margie Ann Gearhart, leader; Dolores Camp, assistant; Patricia Smith, Cathy Smith, Donna Stevens and Pamela Eggert; Blue Bells, Penny Gilpin, leader; Susan Smith, assistant; Karen Smith, Melissa Burdick, Betty Ann Gilpin and Bliss Arneberg; Bluebonnets, Terry Voeste, leader; Gail Butler, assistant; Elaine Hinton, Gloria Bartleson, Shirley Ann Stevens and Pamela Woltjen.

In any organization, there are official duties to be taken care of, and the Brownie Troop is no exception.

The soldiers were on Fletcher's Ice Island—a 10-mile long fragment of shelf ice in the Arctic Ocean—to make special studies of communications near the Pole for the U. S. Army Signal Radio Propagation Agency at Fort Monmouth, N.J. Their valuable satellite readings have been relayed to IGY Vanguard Headquarters through the U. S. Army Signal Engineering Laboratories at Fort Monmouth.

Credit Scientists credit the outpost's unique position—about 450 miles from the North Pole—for the greatly extended reception. The satellite's radio signal, they reason, must come down from space and ricocheted several times between the earth's surface.

'About 400' Absent At Stroud Union

THE OVERALL situation remained unchanged in Monroe County schools yesterday.

Four schools were shut down until Monday. The rest had increased absences, but administrators said that they do not contemplate closing them at the present time.

Worst rise in illness was noted in Stroud Union District schools. Alfred Munson, principal of Stroudsburg High School, said that the high school opened its day with 357 absent. By day's end there were "about 400" out, Munson said.

That was about 42 percent of the total junior-senior high school population of 940 students. It was the heaviest load of absences yet reported by a school in the area.

Increase

Carl T. Secor, supervising principal of East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools, said that absences rose in this area, also. Secor said that 425 pupils were out in the full jointure, with an enrollment of 2050 students.

Secor said this was still within the 20 percent of total enrollment which is viewed as a safe margin by medical authorities. The principal said that East Stroudsburg schools will continue in operation until further notice.

The closed schools—scheduled to remain shut down until Monday—are in Hamilton, Chestnuthill, Polk and Eldred townships.

Soldiers In North Set Contact Mark

ARMY ice scientists on a desolate ice island near the North Pole have reported what is believed to be the longest continuous contact with the Soviet earth satellite.

Their radio monitored the sphere for more than 13 hours on successive days as the sphere circled the earth.

At other spots throughout the world, the satellite's radio signal can ordinarily be picked up only for about a half hour at a time as the space vehicle passes nearby.

ASKING party workers to ring doorbells for the reelection of Judge Fred W. Davis "certainly is not a chore. It should be a labor of love," State Sen. William Z. Scott declared here last night.

Addressing the Monroe County Council of Republican Women at a pre-election dinner meeting in the Penn-Stroud Hotel, the Lansford Republican declared:

"You and I know of his proven ability and his fine reputation for integrity and honesty. And, I might add, attorneys who have worked with Judge Davis in the courtroom agree that he has the sterling quality of being a patient man."

Sen. Scott—himself a strong candidate for one of the top positions on the state ticket in 1958—said the way the situation is developing on the state level the Republicans have "a wonderful opportunity to win the elections next year, but first we must concentrate all our efforts on winning the elections this coming Nov. 5."

The whole state is watching to see what the Republicans do in this election, Sen. Scott remarked, adding, "We must show our strength by electing our candidates to prove we are on the way back."

Sen. Scott was introduced by M. F. Crowe, former state senator, who observed that the young attorney-legislator has great ability and a great future.

Crowe also praised Judge Davis for the fairness of his court decisions and defended him against what he called the "unjust criticisms" being leveled against him by workers of the opposition party.

Judge Davis spoke on behalf of his own candidacy for a second 10-year term. He has served 32 years as president judge of the Monroe-Pike District, having been appointed in 1945 to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge Samuel Shull and elected to the office in 1947.

"I have kept out of politics while on the bench," the judge said. The ethics of being a judge is that, when you go on the bench, you do not enter actively in politics.

"I have tried to be fair and impartial in all matters pertaining to the courts," he said. He recalled the large number of occasions when he was invited by the State Supreme Court to preside in the courts of other counties. "I have benefited as have Monroe and Pike counties—this from this experience for I am far better qualified to handle cases that come before me."

Judge Davis also mentioned the active part he had played in the community, referring especially to presiding over the Salvation Army Advisory Board and to being director of the Civil Defense organization.

Donald Dimmick, GOP candidate for county treasurer, spoke briefly and asked the support of all workers. Other speakers included County Chairman B. K. Williams, who urged the women's council and all other Republicans to work diligently for the party candidates.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Marian Markley, of Allentown, a four-term member of the State House of Representatives. She told of the great progress women have made in politics over the years.

Mrs. Foster Minnich, president of the women's group, opened the meeting and introduced Rev. Clyde Levergood, who pronounced the invocation. Mrs. Betty Kitson was chairman of arrangements for the dinner.

Meaning Of Education

Money has come to mean so much to all of us that as we look at or think about a boy or girl attending high school and college we try to estimate what his education will mean in terms of dollars.

Proper preparation for well-paying jobs is important, but we are missing the real value of education when we think of it only in terms of money.

A Harvard publication contains this gem of thought:

"What a man absorbs during his four undergraduate years, from any source, is his for life. These years are his savings account on which he may draw, in his quest for truth and for freedom, to give to others."

To those of us who completed our formal education some years ago, that thought has real meaning. How often we look back on some training or experience of our high school or college days and draw from it in reaching a decision.

Any school, any teacher or any program that enables a student or students to see education as a mental savings account which will last a lifetime is making a real contribution.

It has been jestingly said by older people that youth is such a wonderful thing, it is a shame to waste it on young people. As we grow older we look back on the days of our youth and see the lost opportunities that flitted by because we did not recognize them as such.

If only we could have recognized we were building a mental savings account, how much more we would have put in the account.

Savings accounts in banks are wonderful and the more we put in the more we have from which to draw when we need it.

Is there some way we can pierce the minds of young people to help them realize the importance of taking advantage of the many opportunities to build a vast mental savings account from which to draw in future years?

Opinions Of Other Editors

The Uses Of Paper Clips

It's hard to keep track of all the various committees of one kind or another that pop up in Washington and so it's not surprising to have the Manchester Guardian report on one that few Americans have heard about. It's a committee which investigated the use of 100,000 paper clips to make sure that they were put to economic and useful purposes.

About 20,000 were used properly to clip paper. Of the remaining 80,000, more than 3,000 were used as pipe cleaners, 5,308 as nail cleaners, 5,434 as toothpicks or ear scratchers, 19,413 as chips in card games, 14,163 were destroyed or bent out of shape during boring telephone conversations, 7,200 served as emergency hooks on suspenders, belts and brassieres, and the balance fell to the floor, were swept up or were swallowed by some children.

No wonder taxes are high! No economy minded desk worker would dream of using paper clips for anything but clipping papers — except, of course, when you need a book mark, something to hang on your shirt pocket to remind you to stop for groceries or a projectile to lob at the blonde at the desk across the office.

George Sokolsky Says...

We're Moon-Struck

The Sputnik has beyond doubt spunkized many of us. We have become moon-struck which was an ancient term for those who were believed to be affected by the moon, so that they suddenly ceased to be completely themselves and acted curiously. It was supposed to happen to beasts as well as to man.

It is a pity when the sense of proportion is out of focus because of some new invention or discovery. For instance, when the first atom bomb was exploded, all the weather-vane speechmakers, commentators and writers began to use the phrase, "The Atomic Age," as though something that was so on a Thursday was no longer so on a Friday.

Actually, in the lives of most of us, nothing happened. Those who loved, continued to love; women bore babies; some idiots sought to solve personality problems in the divorce courts, expecting the second to be different from the first only to discover that most are pretty much the same in the little things that are so important to little people.

"The Atomic Age" has not changed the politics of the world; it is even impossible to attribute to it the paucity of first-rate talent everywhere on the earth, all of those who are governing now having been born before Hiroshima and none of them having, to anyone's knowledge, been diverted to reason by atomic rays.

Now I see that Dr. Abram L. Sachar, president of Brandeis University, blames the Sputnik on Joe McCarthy. That looks to me like a masterpiece of the illogical. Dr. Sachar's argument is that Joe drove brilliant scientists and best State Department career diplomats out of public service and therefore the Russians beat us to the Sputnik. Said Dr. Sachar:

"Because of this, we, the most powerful nation in the world, were defeated in the first stage of inter-space travel."

I wonder if Dr. Sachar listed the names of the great scientists and best diplomats that Joe drove from "active life," thus giving Soviet Russia the advantage of superior brains. Joe McCarthy is dead and his sins, whatever they may be, have been judged by his Maker and it can matter little what Dr. Sachar says against him or I say for him.

But let us be reasonable: Joe held that Soviet Russia was employing American citizens in a conspiracy to infiltrate our government. The Rosenberg Case, the Canadian Spy Ring Case, the conviction of Klaus Fuchs and others in Great Britain, and numerous other cases, tried in the courts by judge and jury, have established that Soviet Russia employed espionage methods in the United States, particularly with regard to our scientific investigations.

Would Dr. Sachar say that a scientist is free to be a spy any more than any other citizen is? Of course, not! He does not mean that at all. Then what does he mean? It is difficult to know exactly because actually Joe McCarthy's investigations have, on the whole, been substantiated by

The Pennsylvania Story Gov. Leader Praises GOP

By Mason Denison Harrisburg — Rundown on Capitol Hill: Eyebrow-raiser—When Democratic Gov. Leader bustled off to Erie earlier this week to take part in groundbreaking ceremonies marking beginning of construction of the ultra-modern 46-mile Erie Thruway, more than one pair of eyebrows moved skyward.

Reason for this was not so much the fact that the Governor had "condescended" to go to far away northwestern Pennsylvania "we're always forgotten by the rest of the state up here" . . . but by one sentence contained in the Governor's speech.

Pointing out that the Thruway was originally conceived as an extension of the toll-paying Pennsylvania Turnpike System but changed to a free-way with passage by Congress last year of the Interstate Highway Program, Mr. Leader said:

"I want to point out that the movement for the toll road began in the administration of Governor Fine."

What furrowed the brow of many a Democratic old pol and brought forth an outbreak of cluck-clucking was the pointed manner in which Democrat Leader went out of his way to pat on the back the Republican Fine Administration.

"Facts are facts," quipped one gubernatorial aide.

The Asian flu bug—"Is it Asian flu—or isn't it?" . . . Few queries have plagued Pennsylvania public health officials in recent years with the intensity of this one . . . the answer is not a simple one that can be answered offhand . . . harried officials of the State Department of Health are not trying to dodge the issue but they are concerned on several points certainly well worth noting for Pennsylvania which ultimately may be in the thick of things before long.

Reason Senator McClelland's haul of Teamsters files from the Miami Beach hotel incinerator chute was small could be simply explained . . . A little item like union papers would always be outnumbered in a Miami Beach hotel incinerator chute by torn mutual tickets, racing charts, gin rummy scores, grayhound statistics, face tissue and pad-paper notes reading, "Meet you at cabana, Mannie."

Gal commander of Wacs in Japan has ordered them to bulge, protrude and curve where necessary. Girdles and falsies general issue? No. But she insists Wacs buy them at own expense. If some flat-chested straight-lined Wac holds that a girdle is beyond the call of duty there can be trouble in the armed services. Will Washington rule "Theirs not to reason why; theirs but to fill the eye"? . . . New York Phone company just won a $33,000,000 rate raise . . . Twice within a few days a New York man was held up by bandits who took his pants off and tossed them out the window so he couldn't give chase . . . The Once Over by H. I. Phillips

A supermarket chain is putting in women's apparel. The wife may now go to the store for a can of salmon and a dozen eggs and come out with a new fall costume.

Every thing has been attended to except the building of a wire wagon that won't wrinkle a dress.

It's gonna seem odd when pop asks, "Where did you get that frock?" and the wife replies, "Between the cold-cuts and the green-vegetable counters." And will any woman admit she picked out a spring hat with one eye on the new bonnets and the other eye on the imported cheeses?

Soviet Rocket Plans

Washington, Oct. 17—Russia is preparing to launch around 100 "high altitude rockets" in the frozen Arctic and Antarctic.

That's what Rep. James E. Patterson (R-Conn.), member of the House Armed Services Committee and the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, has cabled from Moscow. During his visit there, he has conferred with Soviet scientists and other authorities.

In Patterson's cable, he states he has learned Russian plans call for firing 70 rockets in the Antarctic and 25 in Franz Josef Land, some 2,500 miles northwest of Moscow. These rockets will be shot into space during the International Geophysical Year that is now in progress.

Russian scientists also told Patterson that the rockets will be equipped with special instruments for temperature recording, air sampling, radiation measuring, and other meteorological data.

The instruments will transmit this information by radio and will be recovered by parachutes.

"Soviet sources claim that in 1953," Patterson states in his cable, "the Russian Army launched a 'high altitude rocket' that inadvertently became an earth satellite for a few days. No public announcement was made regarding this experiment. In a coming experiment, animals will be carried to an altitude of 120 miles."

Patterson is cutting his trip short and returning to Washington "because of the military significance of recent Russian experiments."

Reorganization — Senator Mike Mansfield (D, Montana), is convinced that tax money could be saved by a reorganization Congress so that it would hold two sessions every year instead of one.

Mansfield proposes that the second session of the year be devoted entirely to appropriation matters while the first concern itself to purely legislative matters.

"As it is at the present time," explains the Senator, "appropriation bills are sandwiched in between regular legislative measures. This, in my opinion, makes for inefficiency and lack of proper consideration for budgetary requests."

In addition, Mansfield believes financial affairs of the nation should be placed on a calendar year basis rather than on the basis of July 1-June 30, as they are now.

Network Blues—Chances are that Congress will finally do something this year to give the federal government more control over radio and television networks.

A group of mass communications and legal experts told the government that this authority was needed to keep the networks from becoming too powerful and strangling improvement of television fare.

This finding is similar to a recommendation by the House anti-trust subcommittee and its chairman, Rep. Emanuel Celler (D, New York, an outspoken and frequent critic of the networks.

Good Evening Ladies! No Sense To These Scents

By Ken Duval

Now that the drab male of the species is to be brightened up and restored to the original splendor of the sex by the fashion dictators, the perfumers are getting into the act. A top executive in the cosmetics industry has announced that there is a rush to produce masculine-smelling perfumes to meet the demand of men.

In a bright interview, redolent with promise of a more fragrant day, he reminds us that, up until the French Revolution, more men than women used the stuff. After that, the men sort of let themselves go and finally it was considered effeminate to use perfume. After a century or so, the men are reclaiming perfume as their own, as they very well may reclaim the martini some day.

What disturbs me is not the prospect of smelling better than I do but the statement that the industry is working to develop masculine-smelling perfumes. Already I can see that they are off on the wrong foot. The trend is toward scents designed to make us smell like the great outdoors, pine woods and fields of clover after a rain.

For a generation of men who, from cradle to grave, seldom get off the pavement, this seems a bit incongruous. Personally, with my fish-belly complexion and my well-known aversion to the discomforts of the great outdoors, I would feel uneasy and conspicuous sitting in a business conference smelling like a pine forest.

Another odor under experimentation, I learn, is that of leather. Now that the horse has gone, this seems a bit archaic to me. My grandfather Patrick, a horse man if ever there was one, always smelled of leather with just a soupçon of horse mixed with it, and it fitted his personality perfectly; but he was a man who knew which end of a horse to feed. None of my colleagues does.

What's In A Name

It is one of the open secrets of the perfume industry that the name of a product is just as important, maybe more so, as the fragrance itself in selling to women. Thus, there was, recently, a bit of celebration over the fiftieth anniversary of one of the most successful of all perfumes, "My Sin." This titillating name apparently has intrigued millions of women whose sins are conceivably dull and uninteresting, as well as those with more spicy histories.

This should work just as well with the men who, by their nature, are devilish creatures, prone to brag about their prowess in the area of amour. Admittedly, perfume, which was once a substitute for soap and water, now is a sex accessory.

I have no suggestions for the perfumers in their endeavor to hit upon a masculine fragrance except that they should try for something that fits modern males better than outdoors odors. Say, something with a gin base with just a whiff of tobacco.

As for names, I respectfully suggest "My Etchings," "I Can Be Had" or "I Love My Wife But Oh You Kid." I confess I'm borrowing from the names of the best-selling feminine perfumes which promise so much but which, alas, don't always deliver.

From The Readers

Dear Mr. Editor:

I took this letter to the editor from another paper and just thought maybe if it were put in our paper it might help some young people who might be doing things that are wrong.

It is true what he said and maybe it will make them think before they do anything else wrong. It is just a thought. It may help.

Muriel Hughes

The letter follows:

"This isn't a lecture kids. I'd just like to give you some facts, in case you're doing the same stupid things I once did, and thought I was smart. First, whatever you're doing, you're going to get caught sooner or later. Then?

"Well, I started when I was 14, was busted a couple of times before I was 17, but never did any time until I was 17. Never mind my crime. I'll just say they threw the book at me.

"I wound up serving five years, then I was paroled. I was lucky. I came out wised up. But it was still rough. You can't blame people for not throwing their arms open to an ex-con.

"Everybody's waiting for you to start doing things wrong all over again. So many jobs and careers are closed to you. Civil Service and jobs with any sort of financial responsibility are out. You just can't get anywhere. I have a family now, and if I ever got to be anybody my past would come out, and I can't let my family be disgraced by me.

"So I must never try to get anywhere. I could go on and on, but what's the use? Do you get what I'm trying to tell you? It's just not worth it. Believe me. If you still have a clean record, for heaven's sake keep it that way. Don't ruin your whole life. Learn something and be somebody. Don't wait for help.

"If your folks are not the kind who will help you, help yourself. This is a wonderful country, and you can be anything you want if you want it badly enough and you try hard enough. Anyway, don't make the mistakes I did. Please don't."

AN EX-CON

On Broadway —by Walter Winchell

Sputnik & Co.

Man, the splendid savage, has thrust a finger into the heavens and is nearing the day when he can touch a star. The ability to roam the skies will undoubtedly in a few years inaugurate the greatest era of exploration. Mankind's biography indicates that the desire to navigate the radiant heights is almost as old as civilization. Over two thousand years ago, the Greeks originated a science known as astronomy. During that period, a Grecian author named Lucian authored a science-fiction yarn highlighted by an interplanetary romance . . . The guided missile idea is state news to Jules Verne fans. The Imaginative One described such a weapon in one of his novels. Moreover, the idea of utilizing rocket weapons was the subject for numerous essays penned by 15th Century military experts. In other words, the startling page-one news today has its roots in ancient history.

History often takes a certain whimsical course. A seemingly innocuous event has momentous consequences. The activity of unknown humans has incalculable effects on multitudes . . . Back in 1943, an RAF reconnaissance plane on a routine photographic mission whizzed over Peenemunde in Germany with its cameras clicking. Several days later, an eagle-eyed photo interpreter spotted something unusual in one of the photos. There seemed to be a series of dark streaks in the earth. Additional photographs were immediately made of the suspicious area. The lens picked up ramps and something that seemed like small robot planes. The conclusion was obvious: The Germans had some sort of missile. An intensive Allied bombardment of Peenemunde and other launching stations were ordered. The result was a 6-month delay in the progress of German missiles. Many military authorities now agree on this: If the Germans had another six months to develop their rocket weapons the outcome of the war would have been different.

Chest Drive Part Of Our Lives

by Jim Riley

Our Community Chest campaign is currently in high gear. I say "our" campaign because each of us should be playing a part in the drive.

True, we may not feel that we will ever have to worry about reaping a harvest from Communism.

ity Chest. But, these same feelings may be misleading. Often times the unexpected happens and we are forced to seek aid from virtually every direction. This is where Community Chest fits into the picture.

The current campaign includes us all. We can contribute and we can work. We can give of our time and talent—but we can never do too much.

Help the Community Chest and help yourself.

A contribution to Community Chest is actually money in the bank—money waiting for the chance to help mankind.

Relief Total Increases In Monroe Area

(Record Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG—The number of Monroe County residents drawing relief has shown an increase during the past 12 months, a check with the State Department of Public Assistance revealed yesterday.

Currently 638 residents of the county are on Pennsylvania's public assistance rolls, which compares with 594 a year ago at the same time.

In comparison with last month an upswing was also noted in the county as Monroe County relievers climbed to 638 from 607.

At the present time the number of persons drawing relief represents 1.8 per cent of the county population.

Largest single type of assistance being drawn by Monroe Countians is aid to dependent children assistance, which follows the pattern of the months. Currently 236 residents of the county are drawing this type of aid.

A breakdown of the remainder of the relief load for Monroe County shows 209 persons drawing old age assistance, 56 blind pensions, 92 general assistance, and 45 aid to disabled assistance.

As a point of comparison while 1.8 per cent of Monroe County is drawing relief in one form or another, the all-county average for the state is 2.2 per cent.

What Is A "Sale?"

This is a big question nowadays. In the past few years sales by the hundreds have been presented to the public. We know by personal contact with you that there is a great deal of confusion about sales.

Are you really getting a "buy"? Is it quality merchandise? The unfortunate part is we have people come in and tell us they have purchased something on sale somewhere and have been dissatisfied with the merchandise and lack of service.

According to the dictionary a sale is in part "An offer by a store of goods of a special quality for a specially low price."

We at Star Furniture in East Stroudsburg do not have a sale unless we can do just that - offer you more for your money. We do not buy up inferior merchandise so we can put a low price on it—for then you get nothing—nor do we mark merchandise at exorbitant prices then reduce it so you think you are getting a bargain.

Because Star Furniture's prices are always the lowest in town we rarely have a sale—however—we are now celebrating our 28th Anniversary and can truthfully say wait for our sale beginning next week for the greatest values ever offered in Pennsylvania. We do this to thank old customers for making us the area's biggest furniture and appliance dealer and to encourage new customers to get the Star Furniture habit.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

How doth the little busy bee improve each shining hour? I'm sure I don't know, and anyway the hours weren't shining and I doubt if we improved them much, but we were certainly the busy little things yesterday. Queen Elizabeth and the women of the county had that much in common, anyway.

And the women had something in common to talk about, too. "Did you see the arrival of the Queen?" was a question that got an immediate and enthusiastic response from practically everybody. There's a fairly tale quality about a Queen that fascinates even grown-up little girls.

All over town women were stopping whatever they were doing, telephoning their friends that the Queen was coming on television, and then stopping to watch. Although I guess that was about the only time they stopped all day. Things were going on.

In fact things got so complicated that bowlers were changing in the ladies room into clothes for a tea party next on the schedule. Where and when they managed to change again for the dinner last night, I don't know. They certainly didn't look as if they'd changed in their cars but where else was there time to go?

It's been a hectic week all the way round, but according to the calendar, there isn't a dinner or luncheon on for today. What do you bet it's bread and milk and early to bed for a lot of people?

Well, that's one way we have it all over Queen Elizabeth. We can put on our clam diggers, leave off any make-up, lock the door and not answer the phone with the reasonable assumption that international amity will not thereby be threatened. Maybe we won't, but we could.

Overweight Child Needs Special Diet

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.

An Overweight Child needs a special diet.

He probably needs other changes in his life, too. Obesity in children is often basically an emotional problem. Some unhappy youngsters find solace in eating. When such is the case, nagging the child to stop eating is apt to make him more unhappy and increase his desire to drown his sorrows with food.

Therefore before you attempt a low calorie diet for a fat child, do take him to your doctor for a thorough physical examination and an investigation of his emotional status.

But let us assume that the emotional aspects of your child's overweight have been investigated and that your problem at this time is to plan a diet low in calories but adequate for growth and well-being.

Cut Down Fats

To reduce unneeded calories you must reduce the fat in the child's diet. Many people think that it is starches and sugars that add the calories to a diet. But the truth is fat adds many more calories than starches and sugar. One teaspoonful of fat gives more than twice as many calories as a spoonful of sugar or potato or other starchy food. Sweets may need to be limited somewhat, but it's fat that adds most of the unwanted calories.

Milk is often the largest source of fat in a child's diet. A child doesn't really need the cream on the milk, though he does need the rest of the milk. If the child is only slightly too fat shifting from whole milk to skimmed milk may be the only change you need to make.

If you need to limit further, the next items to be very careful with are butter or margarine, peanut butter, mayonnaise, fat on meat, gravies, foods which have a high fat content, such as salted nuts, potato chips, doughnuts, fried foods, ice cream.

Between Meals

Usually a child who is overweight eats a good deal between meals and the foods eaten at these odd hours are apt to be high calorie foods. They may be some of the ones mentioned above or they may be cookies, cakes, pastry, candy. All of these foods have a good deal of fat used in their making. It is the fat rather than the sweet that makes these foods high in calories.

Youth Panel Feature Of Co. Federation Meeting

Accent will be on youth—and talent at the Fall meeting of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs next Tuesday beginning at 4 o'clock at Green View Guest Farms, Sciota, with the Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorsburg.

A youth panel will discuss matters close to their hearts: appearance, personality and popularity; boy and girl relationship including dating and going steady; where to go and what to be; youth and the church; home and community.

Mrs. Eugene Martin has arranged for the panel which will include Miss Greta Ewe, Miss Deborah Peoney, Miss Laverne Nauman, Earl Budge and John Moore. A resume of the discussion will be given by Rev. Robert Galligan.

Parents who are members of the five clubs of the federation are being urged to attend.

Melodettes To Sing

In addition there will be special entertainment by the Melodettes. The group started as a study group of the Fine Arts department of the Progressive Woman's Club. As they realized their potentialities, they decided to have a qualified director, Wallace

Hornbrook, a former pianist with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, accepted their offer and the group has established a reputation for good music mixed with humor in their appearances in the county.

Federation emphasis will be brought by two state officers. Mrs. George W. Trexler, vice president of the northeast district, of Lehigh Valley, will speak on "Cooperation". Mrs. Warren N. Edson, second vice president at large of the state federation, of Scranton, will speak on "Consumer Relations". Both women have spoken before to the county group.

Mrs. Claude W. Leister, Stroudsburg, is president of the county federation and will preside at the meeting. Reservations for the dinner should be made today by the members with their respective club presidents.

Dr. Appel On Social Action At Guild

The Women's Guild of the Zion Church of Christ devoted their meeting on October 15 to a discussion of "Christians and Social Action, Values and Hazards".

Dr. John C. Appel of the faculty of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College was the guest speaker.

"We will always have social problems," he warned. In fact those problems increase as life becomes more technical and the living standards higher. Ambition, envy all cause more problems, he said, and many Christian women sometimes attack the Christian point of view.

Christians must desire to know the truth and to act on that truth. Christians must feel a sense of responsibility and take social action to help the less fortunate. As they glorify God in their personal life, they must also glorify Him in their community life, he concluded.

Devotions were in charge of Miss Helen Keller, Janet Beidler and Kay Altemose presented clarinet duets.

During the business meeting the Guild gave $5 to the Community Chest and made plans for the regional workshop to be held at Zion Church on October 22. Theme of the meeting will be "We Believe". Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Announcement was also made of the Thank Offering program to be held on November 10.

In addition to the samples, they will offer baked goods for sale. Fancy work booth, prizes and refreshments.

This is the first large Sample Fair held in the boroughs in recent years. Proceeds will be used for equipment for the volunteer organization.

Anybody In Stroudsburg Town Know?

While the search for the mysterious manufacturer goes on in the local pages, Family Fare has had an inquiry, too. However, few of its readers are apt to have known this one personally.

From Coas Bay, Oregon, has come an inquiry for information about one Jacob Reece who was born in the state of Pennsylvania "near Stroudsburg town" about 1829.

His granddaughter, Mrs. Dorothy Reece Troxell of 1623 North 10th St., in Coas Bay, wants to know his father's full name as well as his mother's, and the names of any brothers or sisters.

Since he married a Missouri girl in Kansas, the wedding was not one reported here. However, Mrs. Troxell is sure that there is "a family tree of the Reeces back at Stroudsburg town" and would like to get in touch with them.

Queen Hears Waring At White House

And at the day's end, there was a state dinner at the White House with President and Mrs. Eisenhower hosts to 93 guests dining on filet of English sole and roast Long Island duckling, served on gold rimmed plates.

Elizabeth shook hands with about half the 2,000 persons who jammed the Hotel Statler ballroom for the reception.

She wore a pale blue dress in faille, full-skirted with embroidered bodice and a small embroidered hat to match.

She seemed to enjoy the laughs that went up from the newsmen and women when she remarked she was "well aware that this visit probably has given you a lot of extra work."

In her talk, she put into one long sentence the task of responsible newspaper, radio and television people in reporting the news of the world in trying times:

"To explain the ideals, the attitudes, the personalities, and the policies of one people to another, to arouse their interest in what is happening thousands of miles away without resorting to exaggeration or partisanship, to destroy old prejudices about other countries without creating new ones, this is surely no easy task."

For tonight's White House dinner, Elizabeth chose a gown of pale green satin with a bodice bordering across the shoulders and into a deep oval at the back.

Mrs. Eisenhower's dress was one of bluish pink with the draped cuff on the bodice and with a looped half bow extending at the center back, with shoulder straps forming a V in the back of the full-skirted gown.

The red-coated Marine band orchestra played popular tunes for the diners, and there was dancing afterwards in the White House East room, with music by Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians.

It was 11:12 a.m. when the Queen and prince flew into Washington in Eisenhower's plane, the Columbine III, from Williamsburg, Va.

Betty Bartholomew may be the President of Women's Days at Wyckoff—but Clown Princess is Blanche Mackey, as always—the only woman in the store who would have consented to be rigged up in rubber frog feet, skeins of green yarn for hair, and yards of tightly wrapped tulle, to be a Mermaid in our Opening Day parade. That Blanche! She has all the makings of a real glamour girl, according to Marcia Clapp, who wielded the makeup brushes... but I'm sure that Blanche would prefer, any day of the week, to look like the Scourge of Thunder Mountain (for laughs, of course) rather than Marilyn Monroe. As a mermaid—well, she might not lure any sailor to a watery grave, but she'd surely scare him to death—or maybe cause him to die laughing.

After her ride through town, on a PONY CART, no less, escorted by a Popeye Doug Gordon, and led by a retinue of sailors carrying fish and slogans designed by Marcia, Blanche had to be CARRIED into the store on the broad shoulders of Ralph Warner and unwashed, before she could walk again. In a twinkling she was no longer a mermaid... just another gal dressed as a goby with an orchid pinned to her shoulder to distinguish her as a Woman's Days official.

Blanche's hat, by the way, had "Gabby" printed upon it... and after one customer had listened to her and been sold an electric range, she volunteered, "You know, Mrs. Mackey, that's a very good name for you."

We knew THAT all along!

This is not only one of our most active Women's Days—it is undoubtedly the most photographed. Fitted neatly into our Women's Day budget was the expense of colored film, so that Fran Meredith might be everywhere with his camera, producing a movie for the pleasure of "Papa" when he returns from Europe. Fran was on a stool in our Music Store, snapping away throughout the Wyckoff Shopper broadcast... he was also in the beam when Bobby Westbrook, Sally Ferber, and Leonard Randolph selected the cosmetic department as first prize winner in our store decorating contest... and he was in the line of march when the parade cavorted up and down Main street. Shorty Widmer was in there pitching too... clicking his still camera at an impressive clip. I'm told the films will be a feature of our Christmas party. (Aside to both Cameramen: you did have those gadgets loaded, now didn't you? Are you SURE?)

The opening moments of Women's Days were exciting for everyone—not just Wyckoff-Sears personnel. One customer was so bewildered when presented with a long stemmed rose just inside our front door, she gasped, "Oh, my goodness—I'm so surprised, I forget what it was I came in to buy."

Cuter than Christmas was Betty Frantz, our Women's Days display manager, in her cute sailor suit and perky cap—even if she did have trouble keeping her trousers up. Perhaps this was psychological. Like all women, Betty knows how men just HATE to see women wear the pants—particularly at business!... It was my pleasure to entertain Bobby, Sally, and Randy at coffee in our Tea Room before and after the judging, and we had lots of fun. Bobby was quoting from the letter written by Shirley Wheeler, her sister, now in Rome. Seems that church suppers in Italy have a small added fee—to cover the cost of the wine... Well now, let's see if I've kept you informed on the opening day highlights. I guess so... but we still have today and tomorrow to keep our interest up. So what about it, Ladies—you WILL help the Women of Wyckoff's go over their goal, won't you? As a fellow "Sister under the Skin," I must point out that together we stand—and what one of us would dare let another woman down? If you've a dollar to spend, spend it NOW—before the men return to power. Anyway, when THEY take over again, they won't be giving mink away... men are funny that way. If you doubt me, mention the subject to your husband!

Candidates To Visit PTA Session

MINISINK — Smithfield Township residents are being invited to attend an experiment in democratic reasoning. It will be held on Monday, Oct. 23 at Smithfield Township School. It is sponsored by the school Parent-Teachers Assn. PTA President Hal Hamlen outlined the program this way last night:

All political candidates who are running for office and whose names will appear on the Smithfield district ballot on Nov. 5 have been invited to come.

Each candidate will be given five minutes at the meeting to explain his attitude toward the office he seeks. He will be preceded by a member of the five-man PTA committee who will briefly explain what the duties of the office are, how much it pays and where the pay originates.

All of the township's 1,050 registered voters are being mailed invitations, by letter, to attend the meeting. The PTA hopes to get at least 300 persons to come to the meeting.

Since there are 13 offices—including county and local—on the ballot, there will be 26 candidates at the meeting. That is if all of them attend.

Hamlen and his committee are calling the program "Know Your Candidates." Why? The PTA president says that "most people don't have any idea who the candidates are when they take off for the polls. This is an indictment not only of party or machine-picked candidates, but also of the voters who don't take the time or trouble to find out who they're choosing from."

Hamlen describes the meeting as "unashamedly political" but "totally non-partisan." It is not the purpose of the PTA to "take sides" on candidates or their stands. It is the purpose of the unit to give voters a chance to find out exactly who candidates are and make up their minds what they think of them before they go to the polls—and to be able to make up their minds based on personal observation.

"When we go to the polls we're not casting our ballots just for a name or a political party," Hamlen said. "We want people to realize that they're voting for an individual, a man or a woman who is seeking to do a job we the people want done for us. It stands to reason we'll vote more wisely if we get to know the candidates before we vote."

All candidates have been invited to come to the school some time before the 8 p.m. opening time for the meeting to have coffee and talk briefly with the program committee. The meeting will begin promptly at 8, however.

In choosing its own committee for arrangements, the PTA organization hit a happy medium for its non-partisan approach. There are two Republicans, two Democrats and one Independent on the committee.

Conditions Good For Hunting

DRY, WARM weather in the Spring and early Summer provided almost ideal hatching and brooding conditions for both forest and farm game birds, the State Game Commission reported yesterday.

The same conditions contributed to good rabbit reproduction, the commission said. The commission issued these forecasts as the 1957 hunting season neared its opening date.

Ruffed grouse—An encouraging increase noted in some areas but overall only a little more populous than last year.

Wild turkeys—In the better turkey range a fair to considerable improvement in numbers. Elsewhere about as in 1956.

Squirrels—Fairly populous in some localities. Not numerous, generally, as last fall. Often said to be "on the move" due to spotty food conditions.

Raccoons—More numerous than last year, when they were generally described as "overabundant," across the state.

Cottontail rabbits—Almost everywhere a fair increase in numbers over last year when the supply was better than average.

Ring-necked pheasant—In better pheasant range a moderate to considerable increase over 1956. Other areas about as last year.

Bobwhite quail—An encouraging, gradual increase in numbers, mostly in southern counties, but not as yet abundant.

Woodchucks—Fairly numerous in most sections. But some areas report a decrease, others say no gain over 1956.

Syrian Crisis Scars Wall Street Customers Into Dropping Stock Market To Low Mark

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Wall Street's customers took a good look at the Syrian crisis today and decided that it was bad enough to pound prices down to their lowest on average since March 22, 1955. Turnover was 3,060,000 compared with the previous session's 2,050,000 shares.

Blue Chips
Based on the fall in the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange fell an estimated 3 1/4 billion dollars.

Among representative blue chip stocks the losses went from 1 to 3 points or so. Various other losses exceeded this.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.80 to $158.20, its new low for the year, with the industrials down $4.20, the rails down $2.50 (both to new '57 lows) and the utilities off 70 cents.

Of 1,198 issues traded, the broadest of this week, there were 944 declines and 98 advances. New lows for the year totaled 282 and new highs, zero.

Of the 15 most active stocks, 13 fell and 2 rose.

Most Active
Chrysler was the most active stock, 2 1/4 at 67 1/2 on 61,000 shares. Second was Bethlehem Steel, off 1/2 at 40 1/2 on 51,100 shares. Third was North American Aviation, up 1/4 at 25 1/2 on 50,900 shares. Lukens Steel, one of the heaviest traded stocks, plummeted 5 1/2. Du Pont fell 4 points, Gulf Oil 2. U. S. Steel 1, Youngstown Sheet 2 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange prices also declined in heavy trading. Volume totaled 1,190,000 shares compared with 780,000 yesterday.

Corporate bonds fell sharply in the year's largest turnover. U. S. government bonds also declined.

THE FLU epidemic is taking its toll of this predicting department. Since the opening week—when viruses were in different areas—our crystal ball has been fogged with flu. Not only has it cut into the school-boy and college schedule, but it also has taken from us "sure" winners.

Last week we hit seven out of 10. But the right prognostications were not enough to keep us from slipping to 750 via a 39-right and 13-loss record for the year.

We're hampered again by illness, not knowing who is strong and who is weak but here goes this week's selections.

EAST STROUDSBURG HIGH OVER BANGOR—The Cavaliers of Jack Kist surprised everyone with its comparatively easy victory over Lehigh Valley Tuesday. However, today Eastburg faces a team which is back on the beam physically and out to crush the unbeaten ambitions of the Cavaliers. Eastburg can't let up one bit in this one or Bangor will—like last season—upset the locals again.

NAZARETH OVER PALMERTON—The Blue Eagles are flying high. The Bombers are low. Just like that Nazareth is too much for Palmerton.

NORTHAMPTON OVER SLATINGTON—Al Erdos's Konkrete Kids are beginning to move, and Slatington is going nowhere fast. Northampton, despite heavy illness on team, should pack away the Slaters for its second win.

WILSON OVER ALLENTOWN Central Catholic—Jud Hall's Warriors have too many good running backs for the Vikings to cope with.

WHITEHALL OVER LEHIGH—This could go either way. But we like the Zephyrs just because Willie Pitt always is capable of coming up with the unexpected.

EASTON OVER SCRANTON Central—The Rovers lost star back Harry Stagnitto for the season. However, Bobby Rute is loaded with backfieldmen. Scranton Central was at one time tabbed the Coal Region's best. But they are still not good enough to top Easton.

ALLENTOWN OVER PHILIPSBURG, N. J.—The Canaries are hot. Philippsburg, even with a 3-0 record, have looked slow. Allentown is aiming for an undefeated year. Can't see the Garnet giving them their first setback.

BETHLEHEM OVER READING—This is another toss-up with the Hurricane in and out all season, and the Black Knights not looking like world beaters. Bethlehem got going against Milton Hershey last week. Maybe the winning attitude will continue to catch on against Reading.

HELLERTOWN OVER COPLAY—The Panthers have a strong first team. Coplay doesn't have that. This will be the difference in winning and losing.

LAFAYETTE OVER TEMPLE—The Maroon is back to full strength since the flu siege. Temple, even at full strength at the start of the year, was questionable. Should be win No. 3 for Lafayette.

RUTGERS OVER LEHIGH—The Scarlet of New Brunswick will be as tough as opposition the Engineers will face all year. Too tough we're afraid for Bill Leckonby's fine eleven.

MUHLBERG OVER LEHANN VALLEY—The Mules haven't depth but they do have desire. This makes up for its lack of numbers. LV is an also ran.

MORAVIAN OVER PENNSYLVANIA Military College—The Greyhounds of Rocco Calvo should make hay if the sun shines in this one.

Eastburg Meets Bangor At Memorial Stadium Today

Cavaliers Seek 4th Straight In 8 P.M. Arc Light Clash

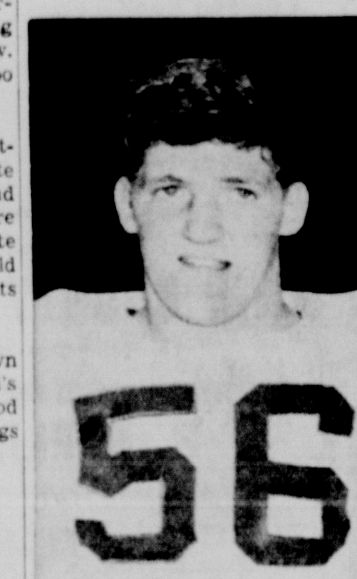

WITH LESS THAN 72 HOURS of preparation behind them, Jack Kist's East Stroudsburg High's eleven will attempt to grab its fourth victory today when the Cavaliers host Bangor at Memorial Stadium. Game time is 8 p.m.

The arc light tilt, a hurriedly arranged game when sickness forced Stroudsburg High to postpone its Slatington game and virus attacks made Parkland call off its skirmish with Eastburg, will be the first home showing for the Cavaliers since its opening game with Slatington Sept. 20.

"Old man flu," still hovering over local schools has been taking its daily toll of the Cavaliers. Wednesday star tackle Doug Smith came down with the malady and was sent home to recuperate.

"We don't know from one day to the next how many boys will be fit" Kist surveyed last night. "We're keeping our fingers crossed and hoping that we will be able to field a representative team against Bangor tonight."

Tough Task

The Cavalier mentor has been working overtime, trying to get his boys up for the Slatington game. "We've got to guard against a letdown," he said. "There has been such short time between games that getting the squad in the right frame of mind has been a tough task."

The Cavaliers were riding high a year ago when they met Bangor. At the end of 48 minutes of play, Bangor walked off the field a 19-7 victor.

If all goes right Kist will probably go with his regular unit which has dumped three foes thus far. Opening at ends will be Wes Werkheiser and Bob Stine, while Foster Ladlee and either Doug Smith (if physically fit) or Joe Koleun will be tackles.

Probable Guards

The guards will be handled by Denny Patti, Jim Strunk (also on the sick list now) and Co-Captain Horace Cole. Tom Long is expected to man his center post.

Eastburg's backfield will be either Charley Lupin (a recent recoverer from the flu) or Bob Herman at quarterback, Co-Captain Roger Ray and Phil Simon, halfbacks, and Carl (Corky) Smith, fullback.

Sure to see action are end Ray Uhl and kicking specialist Don Miller.

Canadians Lead U.S. In Seniors

GARDEN CITY, N.Y., Oct. 17 (AP)—Canada took a 13½ to 7½ lead over the United States today in the foursomes play of the senior golf competition between the two countries at the Garden City Golf Club. The windup singles matches will be played tomorrow.

Two teams from Canada shut out their rivals. A. R. Wilson of Burlington Golf Club and Dr. G. F. Laing of Essex Golf Club gave Canada a 3-0 start by turning back the No. 1 U.S. combine of Egon F. Quittner of Rydal, Pa., and James H. Ackerman of Princeton, N.J.

Other Shutout

The other shutout was registered by L. R. Jackson and John Hadden, both of Toronto. They routed Col. Martin S. Lindsgrrove of Morrisstown, N.J., and Wilson Jones of Garden City.

Allan L. Code, Canada's captain from Perth Golf Club, and L. C. Robinson of Toronto scored 2½ points as did their teammates Dr. K. V. McKenzie and J. H. Firstbrook, both of Toronto.

Two U.S. duos scored 2½ points. These were James D. Miller of Bronxville, N.Y., and Mason B. Starring of New York and Weller Berkeley, Calif., and W. Hamilton Gardner of Buffalo.

Pen Argyl Tilt Is Called Off

THE FLU epidemic sweeping the Lehigh Valley forced Jim Thorpe High to postpone its scheduled game tomorrow with Pen Argyl. No new date has been set for the clash.

Also cancelled out by the sickness was the Catawquaque-Emmaus game which was slated to be played today.

USOA Shows Big Surplus

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—The U.S. Olympic Assn. (USOA) showed today a surplus of $1,563,302.78 and set the sum aside to provide an annual income to meet running expenses.

With other invested assets, the USOA now has an income of $90,000 annually.

The sum of $2,939,170.61 was collected over the past four year period by the Olympic Assn., and R. Max Ritter, the treasurer, reported that $1,375,867.83 was spent sending teams to the Pan American Games in Mexico City in 1955, and to the Winter Olympics in Cortina, Italy, and the Summer Games in Melbourne in 1956.

Meet Expenses

"In the future we can meet all association overhead and also cover all necessary expense incurred in fund raising," said Kenneth L. Wilson, USOA president, in praising the new trust fund. "Consequently the contributions received in future campaigns can go 100 per cent to the original purpose of underwriting the team expense."

The Olympic Assn. is embarking on an intensive program to raise the level of American standards in Olympic sports in which a poor showing was made at Melbourne, and in many of which the Russians were outstanding, such as gymnastics, field hockey, soccer and Greco-Roman wrestling.

National Olympic Day will be observed Saturday, Oct. 19, as proclaimed by President Eisenhower.

Grab Jersey City

International League Makes Bold Move For '3rd Major'

MONTREAL, Oct. 17 (AP)—The International League today moved back into Jersey City in a bold stroke termed by President Frank Shaughnessy "the first big step in becoming a third major league."

The triple A circuit claimed the New Jersey territory to replace either Miami or Havana, which suffered heavy financial losses the past season. The Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League played 15 regular season games in Jersey City over the last two years.

"Becoming a third major league has been our goal all along," said Shaughnessy. "I don't know how long it will take, maybe a year, two or five, but we are on our way."

"Good Town"

"Jersey City is a good baseball town with a fine ball park which has adequate parking facilities. With television and radio receipts we could almost guarantee a club a successful operation."

"When we were in there before we had too much to back with three major league teams in New York. Now we will have it all to ourselves when the Yankees are out of town."

Asked about earlier reports that Jersey City was only a jumping off place before an eventual move to Brooklyn or New York, Shaughnessy said:

"At the present time Brooklyn is still the Dodgers' territory and the Giants, too, are in New York until they make their peace with the Pacific Coast League. After they leave it becomes the territory of the American League and the rules would have to be changed in order to claim either one."

Support Two

"Sure I think New York can support at least two clubs. It should have baseball every day during the summer. The real obstacle is whether the rule will be changed and the major leagues will let us in."

In New York, Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said the matter of territorial rights in the New York area would be tabled until the Giants and Dodgers have come to an agreement with the Pacific Coast League.

Face Top Three

Purdue, Kansas, TCU Meet 'Cream Of Crop' Tomorrow

The Associated Press

PURDUE'S Jack Mollenkopf, Chuck Mather of Kansas and Abe Martin of Texas Christian may be in for a long, chilly afternoon Saturday even though the weather usually isn't cold at this stage of the football season.

Their teams face the top three in the national ratings and now that the experts have shown they don't automatically award Oklahoma the No. 1 spot, the competition is terrific.

Oklahoma, displaced from the top for only the third time in two years, likely will make the Kansas game a sort of crusade to get back, just as the Sooners did last year when they yielded to Michigan State for just one week. Michigan State will be scrapping just as hard against Purdue to retain its top rating.

Take On Aggies

TCU takes on third-ranked Texas A&M and Coach Martin's reply to the suggestion his team might pull an upset was: "The Aggies are better than Oklahoma." That might inspire the Aggies to try to prove it.

Michigan State's Spartans went to the top of the heap by routing Michigan 35-6 last Saturday. On the records Purdue hardly looks like a match even though the Boilermakers gave Minnesota its closest game so far. Kansas, which won by a point over Colorado and tied TCU, doesn't appear to be in Oklahoma's class, either. But that's what was said about Texas last week and the mighty Sooners had a hard time winning 21-7.

The flu, meanwhile, caused cancellation of several games and weakened many teams preparing for contests this week end.

Today's Action

The action starts early this week end with three major games listed Friday night. Unbeaten North Carolina State and Mississippi, both in the second ten in The Associated Press ranking poll take on Miami of Florida and Tulane, respectively while West Virginia, defending Southern Conference champion, plays Georgia Washington.

One bowl game entry may be decided this week when Washington State plays Oregon.

Midget Grid Loop Plan Tag Days

EAST Stroudsburg Midget Football League will hold Tag Days—Friday and Saturday of next week. This was decided at a meeting of the Varsity "E" Club of East Stroudsburg, sponsors of the grid loop, at the American Legion Home last night.

Coaches, players and a ladies group will help in the campaign to raise funds for the league which features players in the nine to 12 year old bracket.

The "E" membership also discussed a midget basketball program which will take in players in the sixth and seventh grades in elementary schools in East Stroudsburg and the surrounding territory.

Action on the proposal was tabled until the next meeting of the club.

Also up for discussion was the invitation to sponsor the country-known Tulsa Choir at a concert in January. Action on this matter will be taken at the next session.

Games Postponed
Midget football league coaches announced that this week's schedule of games have been postponed until later in the season. The recent flu wave in the area undermanned teams and forced the postponements.

Following the business session, East Stroudsburg head football coach Jack Kist showed films of the Cavaliers game with Pen Argyl.

Refreshments followed the movies.

State Grants Taylor License

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—James Crowley, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, announced today that Herman Taylor of Philadelphia had been granted a new boxing promoter's license.

The action followed lengthy hearings on Taylor's application, and Crowley said it was based also in part on a Dauphin County Common Pleas Court decision recently that alleged incidents of misconduct on the part of an applicant could not be considered by the commission if they happened before Aug. 31, 1955.

Bucs Purchase Lincoln Hurler

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced the purchase of right-handed pitcher Bill Bell from Lincoln of the Western League and the sale of right-hander Jackie Brown to Columbus of the International League.

Bell, who hails from Goldsboro, N.C., previously tried out with the Pirates in 1952 after hurling three no-hit games with Bristol in the Class D Appalachian League. Last year he posted a 11-4 record with Lincoln.

Commercial "C" League will bowl today at Harmon's Recreation, East Stroudsburg starting at 9:15 p.m. The schedule:

Castellani 3-1 Underdog

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Rory Calhoun, a 23-year-old middle-weight contender with a deep yearning for a title shot, and Rocky Castellani, a 30-year-old onetime challenger, clash tomorrow in the first boxing card in the famous battle pit at Madison Square Garden in seven months. Calhoun, ranked third by Ring Magazine and fifth by the NBA, is a 3-1 favorite over the unranked veteran from Atlantic City, N.J. The 10-rounder will be broadcast and telecast by NBC at 9 p.m. EST.

Aggressive
The son of a Georgia minister and a devotee of classical music, young Rory believes this background when he steps into the ring. The 5-8, 160-pounder from White Plains, N. Y., has bulging muscles, a ferocious swing, and an aggressive style. Rory tosses many of his punches from "way out, landing some and missing as many. But when he connects, the blows have a jarring effect.

His record is 29-2-1, including 15 knockouts. The defeats were by decision to contenders Spider Webb and Joey Giambra. Rory outlasted Giambra in a return. He would like to meet Giambello and Webb again.

Stepping Stone
Castellani, who was beaten by Bobo Olson in a title fight and who floored Sugar Ray Robinson, hopes to use the strong man as a springboard for a fresh ranking. The broad-shouldered ex-Marine will have to be at his best to keep Rory off.

Rocky, a pro since 1944, depends on his left jab and hook, clutching arms and fast feet. He has become a punch, clutch and fighter. When he is effective it usually makes for a dull fight but a win for Rocky. His record

Bowling Clinic

To Get The Feel Of The Ball

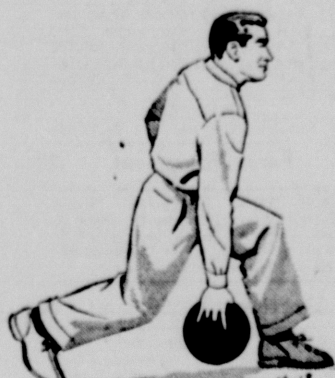

HOW to feel the weight of the bowling ball? You've got to let the ball swing of its own weight from the time it drops into its backward arc after the push-away motion.

That's the vital action that most beginners have difficulty developing, and it's the one thing that throws the experts off their timing when the push-away varies the least bit.

What causes variation? It goes back to the very first movement—the pushing away of the ball. It's got to be done in timing with the first step, and to get timing and keep it the first step must be slow and short. Only then will the ball, pushed forward, pull the body down comfortably so that, at the foul line, you will be in perfect balance, as the sketch shows.

Feel of Ball

To get the feel of the ball—the weight of it in swing—let it drop freely, yes loosely, into its downward-backward arc. No resistance physically. Get that relaxed, sort of lazy push-away feeling and you'll develop a pendulum swing that hugs the side of the body in a constant groove. But more than that, you'll change effort to ease. The swinging motion will eliminate all pressure on the hand and the fingers and give you control that'll add points to your average. Remember, no rushing to the line—and feel the weight of the ball in swing.

Influenza Throwing College Grid Teams For Big Loss

By The Associated Press

INFLUENZA is throwing many college football teams for a loss this week, with some games cancelled and many teams weakened by the spread of the flu bug.

Officials decided to cancel a night game Saturday at Des Moines, Iowa, between Drake and Colorado State.

In Pennsylvania, Washington & Jefferson called off its game with Temple.

The Slippery Rock State Teachers College's homecoming game with Johns Hopkins at Haverford, Pa., and Juniata at Lycoming also were canceled.

Illness of players and students at Bowdoin forced cancellation of the Maine school's game with Williams.

In New York State, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute cancelled its game with Union College.

Also Cancelled

The Omaha-Bradley game was also canceled, as was the Brandeis-Springfield contest.

Wheaton, Ill., scheduled Kentucky State to replace Illinois Ind., classes at Valparaiso University were closed and a decision was to be made today whether to go ahead with Saturday's homecoming game with Butler.

Squads of both West Virginia University and George Washington, D.C., were hard hit. This is an important game for West Virginia, seeking its fifth straight Southern Conference title.

Also heavily hit was Washington and Lee, which meets Randolph-Macon. Both Syracuse and Nebraska, who meet Saturday at Lincoln, Neb., reported key players down with the flu. Rutgers called off contact drills in preparation for the Lehigh game.

Colgate, Pitt, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Columbia reported key players were ill, but some might be able to play by Saturday.
